Session Learning Outcomes

By the end of this session, the student should be able to:

- Students will be able to understand the nature of existence, appreciate its interconnectedness
- recognize the principle of co-existence as the foundation of harmony at all levels
- Students will develop reflective thinking to observe nature/existence, analyze its inherent interconnectedness

How to Engage with this Session (The Process)

- Whatever is said is a proposal — do not assume it to be true or false.
- Verify it on your own right, on the basis of your natural acceptance.
- It is a dialogue: first between you and the teacher, then within your own self — between what you are and what you really want to be.

Part A — Key Ideas (Recap)

- Give an example of interconnectedness in nature.: Plants provide oxygen for humans and animals, while humans and animals release carbon dioxide needed by plants.
- Why is it important to understand the co-existence of humans and nature?: Because human well-being is directly dependent on the health and balance of natural systems.

Part B — In-Class Activity

Activity 1: Self-Exploration and Natural Acceptance for Session 5

Analyze the core proposal on the basis of natural acceptance and self-verification.

| Core Proposal Aspect | Naturally Acceptable? (Yes/No) | Current Practice (Living with it?) |
|---|---|---|
| Students will be able to understand the natur... | Yes (Naturally Acceptable) | In Progress / Conscious Effort |
| recognize the principle of co-existence as th... | Yes (Naturally Acceptable) | Self-Observing Regularly |

Personal Observation: When verifying Students will be able to understand the nature of existence, through my natural acceptance, it leads to internal harmony, clarity of purpose, and unconditional fulfillment.

Living in alignment with this understanding eliminates internal contradictions and fosters mutual happiness in all dimensions of life.

Activity 2: Participation in the Order of Society and Nature

Identify concrete steps to translate understanding into conduct and relationship.

| Dimension of Living | Commitment & Action Plan |
|---|---|
| Thought & Imagination | Ensure desires are guided by natural acceptance rather than pre-conditioning. |
| Behavior & Relationship | Express feelings of trust, respect, and affection unconditionally in daily interactions. |
| Work & Production | Engage in mutually enriching work with nature, ensuring conservation and sustainability. |

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

Q1. What is harmony in the Self? Explain with the activities of desire, thought and expectation.

Harmony in the Self means that the activities of the Self are aligned with natural acceptance and right understanding. The Self has activities such as desire, thought and expectation. If these are guided by preconditioning or sensation, then the Self becomes confused and unhappy. For example, a person may desire physical facility assuming it will give continuous happiness, but after getting it, the happiness may remain temporary. When desire, thought and expectation are guided by right understanding, the Self becomes clear about what it really wants: continuous happiness. In harmony, the Self verifies proposals on the basis of natural acceptance and acts according to right understanding. This leads to clarity, peace and satisfaction within.

Q2. Give an example of interconnectedness in nature.

Plants provide oxygen for humans and animals, while humans and animals release carbon dioxide needed by plants.

Q3. Why is it important to understand the co-existence of humans and nature?

Because human well-being is directly dependent on the health and balance of natural systems.
