Session Learning Outcomes

By the end of this session, the student should be able to:

- Students will be able to identify and understand the various activities of the Self such as desire, thought, and selection
- explore the potentialities for right understanding, wisdom, and harmonious living.
- Students are expected to recognize and differentiate the activities of the Self (desire, thought, selection)

How to Engage with this Session (The Process)

- Whatever is said is a proposal — do not assume it to be true or false.
- Verify it on your own right, on the basis of your natural acceptance.
- It is a dialogue: first between you and the teacher, then within your own self — between what you are and what you really want to be.

Part A — Key Ideas (Recap)

- What are the potentialities of the self?: The potentialities of the self include the ability to gain right understanding, ensure harmony within, live with ethical conduct, and evolve towards happiness and mutual coexistence.
- Why is understanding the activities and potentialities of the self important?: It is important because it guides us toward self-development, responsible decision-making, and ethical living, which are essential for personal growth and professional practice.

Part B — In-Class Activity

Activity 1: Self-Exploration and Natural Acceptance for Session 7

Analyze the core proposal on the basis of natural acceptance and self-verification.

Core Proposal Aspect	Naturally Acceptable? (Yes/No)	Current Practice (Living with it?)
Students will be able to identify and underst...	Yes (Naturally Acceptable)	In Progress / Conscious Effort
explore the potentialities for right understa...	Yes (Naturally Acceptable)	Self-Observing Regularly

Personal Observation: When verifying Students will be able to identify and understand the various through my natural acceptance, it leads to internal harmony, clarity of purpose, and unconditional fulfillment.

Living in alignment with this understanding eliminates internal contradictions and fosters mutual happiness in all dimensions of life.

Activity 2: Participation in the Order of Society and Nature

Identify concrete steps to translate understanding into conduct and relationship.

Dimension of Living	Commitment & Action Plan
Thought & Imagination	Ensure desires are guided by natural acceptance rather than pre-conditioning.
Behavior & Relationship	Express feelings of trust, respect, and affection unconditionally in daily interactions.
Work & Production	Engage in mutually enriching work with nature, ensuring conservation and sustainability.

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

Q1. What is the main learning from Practice Session 7?

Practice Session 7 helps us reflect on whether human beings are playing their role properly in nature. The main learning is that nature already has an inherent order, and the role of human beings is to understand this harmony and live without violating it. Human participation should facilitate the activity, innateness and inheritance of all orders of nature. For the physical order, we must help maintain its constitution; for the bio order, we must support growth and protect seeds; for the animal order, we must ensure an environment for its body and breed; and for the human order, we must support right understanding, human education-sanskar, undivided society and universal human order. Environmental crisis shows that when human beings act without right understanding, they disturb harmony. Therefore, this session leads us to responsible participation in nature.

Q2. What are the potentialities of the self?

The potentialities of the self include the ability to gain right understanding, ensure harmony within, live with ethical conduct, and evolve towards happiness and mutual coexistence.

Q3. Why is understanding the activities and potentialities of the self important?

It is important because it guides us toward self-development, responsible decision-making, and ethical living, which are essential for personal growth and professional practice.
