Session Learning Outcomes

By the end of this session, the student should be able to:

- On completion of this topic, students will be able to recognize the activities of the Self — realization, understanding, and contemplation
- appreciate their role in attaining comprehensive knowledge about existence through realization of co-existence, understanding harmony in nature, and contemplating human participation in the universal order.
- Students will be able to demonstrate clarity in the activities of the Self — realization, understanding, and contemplation — by connecting them with the realization of co-existence, understanding of harmony in nature

How to Engage with this Session (The Process)

- Whatever is said is a proposal — do not assume it to be true or false.
- Verify it on your own right, on the basis of your natural acceptance.
- It is a dialogue: first between you and the teacher, then within your own self — between what you are and what you really want to be.

Part A — Key Ideas (Recap)

- Why is awakening important for students?: It helps students integrate technical knowledge with ethical responsibility, sustainability, and human values, ensuring their work benefits both society and nature.

Work & Production	Engage in mutually enriching work with nature, ensuring conservation and sustainability.

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

Q1. What are the practical ways in which human beings can participate in sustaining harmony in nature?

Human beings can sustain harmony in nature by living with right understanding and responsibility. Practical steps include value education and awareness, value-based living, reducing unnecessary consumption, walking or cycling when possible, planting trees, reforestation, protecting wildlife and national parks, water harvesting, restoring wetlands, preserving rivers, sustainable agriculture, nurturing birds and animals, stopping poaching, reducing waste, recycling, reusing materials and using renewable energy. These actions must not be done only as isolated activities, but as expressions of right understanding. The aim is to preserve, protect and enrich nature while fulfilling genuine human needs. In this way, human beings can move from exploitation to mutual enrichment and participate in universal human order.
