Session Learning Outcomes

By the end of this session, the student should be able to:

- Students will be able to explain the concept of human conduct, analyze the factors influencing it
- evaluate its role in ensuring harmony at the individual, familial, and societal levels.
- Students will gain the ability to understand human conduct as a natural expression of right understanding

How to Engage with this Session (The Process)

- Whatever is said is a proposal — do not assume it to be true or false.
- Verify it on your own right, on the basis of your natural acceptance.
- It is a dialogue: first between you and the teacher, then within your own self — between what you are and what you really want to be.

Part A — Key Ideas (Recap)

- Why is understanding human conduct important?: It is important because it helps individuals make responsible decisions, live ethically, and contribute positively to society and sustainable development.
- What is meant by human conduct?: Human conduct refers to the way a person lives and behaves, guided by their values, intentions, and understanding of harmony with self, others, and nature.

Part B — In-Class Activity

Activity 1: Self-Exploration and Natural Acceptance for Session 1

Analyze the core proposal on the basis of natural acceptance and self-verification.

Core Proposal Aspect	Naturally Acceptable? (Yes/No)	Current Practice (Living with it?)
Students will be able to explain the concept ...	Yes (Naturally Acceptable)	In Progress / Conscious Effort
evaluate its role in ensuring harmony at the ...	Yes (Naturally Acceptable)	Self-Observing Regularly

Personal Observation: When verifying Students will be able to explain the concept of human conduc through my natural acceptance, it leads to internal harmony, clarity of purpose, and unconditional fulfillment.

Living in alignment with this understanding eliminates internal contradictions and fosters mutual happiness in all dimensions of life.

Activity 2: Participation in the Order of Society and Nature

Identify concrete steps to translate understanding into conduct and relationship.

Dimension of Living	Commitment & Action Plan
Thought & Imagination	Ensure desires are guided by natural acceptance rather than pre-conditioning.
Behavior & Relationship	Express feelings of trust, respect, and affection unconditionally in daily interactions.
Work & Production	Engage in mutually enriching work with nature, ensuring conservation and sustainability.

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

Q1. Explain natural acceptance of human values.

Natural acceptance of human values means that the values required for human living are already acceptable to us at the level of the Self. When we understand harmony at different levels, our participation in that harmony becomes our value. In relationship, values such as trust, respect, affection, care, guidance, reverence, glory, gratitude and love lead to mutual happiness. In work with the rest of nature, right utilisation, protection and enrichment lead to prosperity and preservation of nature. These values are not imposed from outside; they are naturally acceptable because every human being wants happiness, prosperity, relationship and harmony. When right understanding develops, value-based living becomes natural and leads to harmony at individual, family, society and nature levels.

Q2. Why is understanding human conduct important?

It is important because it helps individuals make responsible decisions, live ethically, and contribute positively to society and sustainable development.

Q3. What is meant by human conduct?

Human conduct refers to the way a person lives and behaves, guided by their values, intentions, and understanding of harmony with self, others, and nature.
