Q1. Explain the strategies for transition towards value-based life and profession.

Transition towards value-based life and profession begins with individual transformation and gradually moves toward societal transformation. The first step is to gain right understanding through self-exploration. This helps us move from animal consciousness to human consciousness. The next step is to create mass awareness about holistic development and the human goal. Then education must be humanised by incorporating value education, value-based education and practice-oriented skill development. The aim is to ensure happiness, prosperity, ethical conduct and sustainable systems.
